The cold may have put off all but the hardy but they were rewarded with rod average of 5.25 last week. With the wind gusting up to 25mph, conditions were far from ideal. Thankfully, by Saturday, the weather had returned to the seasonal average and both bank and boat users caught on a variety of flies and lures. These early season fish are still relatively easy to catch and a further 1800 fish were stocked on Thursday, distributed evenly around the reservoir.

The average water temperature has remained at 8c with the ambient air showing a maximum of 11c. With less wind and higher overnight temperature, the forthcoming week is expected to produce bumper catches.

Best spots for boat fishing have been Chingley wood and the entrance to Bewl Straight.

Best spots for bank fishing have been Ferry Point and Seven Pound Creek to Bramble Bay.
